

If I Die Laughing, It'll Be An Act Of God

Sky clad

It's revelation reveals - divine comedy (and more), please welcome your four hosts - death, famine, pestilence and war. You say that we are all Gods' children, can you please explain - how any father could inflict his children so much pain.

I'm sure he finds it funny - but I fail to see the joke,

I bet he'll piss his breeches when we all go up in smoke. Life's one big disaster, I hear the sound of laughter coming from the hereafter, (I find it kind of odd) we're stooges for Jehova, he loves to knock us over - so if I die laughing it'll be an act of God! Thunderbolts were once his style

It's now malignant tumours,

I wonder what he'll think of next to test my sense of humour?

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>