Two Different Worlds

Foreigner

I know this girl, she's always on my mind
She lives in her world and I live in mine
I should forget about her and I've tried, oh Lord knows I've tried
But I want to know her, and here's the other side
I've got someone waiting for me every night
She's the only one I've ever loved, it's been that way for the longest time
And she's the one that makes my world go right
And it tears me in two because I know where I'll be tonight
I think she knows it
I think she knows
I live in two different worlds, two different worlds
One that belongs to me, one could be wrong for me
Two different worlds, two different worlds
Ohh, it's two different worlds
Is she that different or is it the thrill of someone new?
Strung out on her, I need her love, I need it bad, that I know, I know it's true
I'm the one that lies awake alone
And I know, she's the one that makes me stray from home
And I know it
Yeah, I know it
I live in two different worlds, two different worlds
One that I may regret, one that I can't forget
Two different worlds, two different worlds
Ohh, it's two different worlds
No, I can't explain this emptiness
No, I know that I can't go on like this
Two different worlds, two different worlds
Ohh, it's two different worlds, I live in two different worlds
One that I may regret, and one that I won't forget
Two different worlds, but I can't live in both, I know
One world I must let go

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/