The Infection

Disturbed

In the back of my mind
I can barely even remember
When there was nothing left to hide
And she had found a way inside
Then I was forced to walk alone
Living in an empty home
All I wanted was to hide
And try to numb the ache inside
And I'm still afraid of the light
And a thousand voices share their laughter
At my demise
Now if I am to survive
The infection must die
Murder the beast
That's been eating me alive
The infection must die
Nothing left but a broken man
Terrified of everything
Nothing left of his foolish pride
His fond memories slowly die
Then as he wakes again alone
Still a prisoner in his home
Ready to allow the dark
To penetrate his broken heart
And I'm still afraid of the light
And a thousand voices share their laughter
At his demise
Now if I am to survive
The infection must die
Murder the beast
That's been eating me alive
The infection must die
Now if I am to survive
The infection must die
Murder the beast
That's been eating me alive
The infection must die
This is where I draw the line
This infection must die

Give me release from this demon of mine
The infection must die
The infection must die
