Bedlam

Elvis Costello

I've got this phosphorescent portrait
Of gentle Jesus meek and mild
I've got this harlot that I'm stuck with

Carrying another man's childThe solitary star announcing vacancy

Burnt out as we arrived

They'd throw us back across the border

If they knew that we survivedAnd they were surprised to see us

So they greeted us with palms

They asked for ammunition acts

Of contrition and small almsI might recite a small prayer if I ever said them

I lay down on an iron frame and found myself in Bedlam

I wish that I could take something for drowning out the noise

Wailing echoes down the corridorsI've got this imaginary radio

And I'm punching up the dial

I've got the AC trained on the TV

So it won't blow up in my eyeAnd everything that I thought fanciful

And mocked as too extreme

Must be family entertainment here

In the strange land of my dreamsAnd I'm practicing my likeness

Of St. Francis of Assisi

For if I hold my hand outstretched

A little bird comes to meAnd I might recite a small prayer if I ever said them

I lay down on an iron frame and found myself in Bedlam

Escaping from the fingers that were stretching through the bars

Wailing echoes down the corridorsThe player piano picks out 'Life goes on'

The ring tone rang out 'Jerusalem'

Into the pit of sadness where the rank of wretched plunge

We've buried all the innocents we must bury revengeThey've got this scared and decorated girl

Strapped to the steel trunk of a Mustang

And then they drove her down a cypress grove

Where traitors hang and stars still spangleThey dangled flags and other rags

Along a colored thread of twine

They dragged that bruised and purple heart

Along the road to PalestineSomeone went off muttering

He mentioned thirty pieces

Easter saw a slaughtering

Each wrapped in bloodstained fleecesMy thoughts returned to vengeance

But I put up no resistance

Though it seemed a long way from my home

It really was no distanceAnd I might recite a small prayer if I ever said them
I lay down on an iron frame and found myself in Bedlam
Bowing like an actor acknowledging applause
Playing the crusader who was conquering the Mars
And he knew the consequences but he won't accept the cause
Wailing echoes down the corridorsFeel it, feel it

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/