I never understood concepts of time you're just a little kid and then you die and I don't want to go in the dirt alone
I don't want to go in the dirt at all You're buried under skin in hotel room
You try to close your eyes but you see right through
And I don't think I've ever felt so well
And I don't think you've ever felt so well

I'm hoping for a day that starts at night thinking of the first time we all got high
I always keep things in my bones
When they dig me up I hope they bring me home
I never understood how to say things right
But as long as when I'm done you feel alright

Nothing ever makes me feel so well
There's nothing that ever makes me feel so well
