Justine

Flowing Tears

you run deeper and faster you run past the disaster you run... a smile in the suitcase you run... a nowhere insideyou know you'll never fly so close you tried to feel the fire but to forever try one day your wings will learn to flyyou run restless and wired you run trembling and tired you scream - out to the nowhere Justine - alone against the tideyou know you'll never fly your name won't be no running fire but to forever try one day your feet will sear the skyand while the miles fly away memories decay the years are dyingeach year for birthday a card few words from the heart a note from the runyou stop. taking a breath while you lock away the past miles sit down! the running is over Justine - I know where you hide!you know you'll never fly your name won't be no running fire but to forever try

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/

one day your steps will take you higher