

Lazy Dreamer

Liz Phair

You fall hard, you fall deep
Even when you're awake, you look half asleep
Do you even know what you did last summer?
Wandering around deaf, dumb and blind
With the girls all hanging around you
Is that no or yes? We'll have to guess
Mysterious eyes let you see what you want
Half the time you didn't know any better
But half the time you did
Hanging around like tomorrow doesn't apply to you
Lazy dreamer, you never want to rise
Stubborn in-between
You're almost paralyzed
Makes no difference to you
The sun shining in your eyes
Or the buzzer that's whining
Waiting for you but they don't even realize
You're still out like a light
Still laying at home
Bet that's you on the phone
Like a dog you show up and wag your tail for a bone
Half the time you didn't know any better
But half the time you did
Hanging around like tomorrow doesn't apply to you
Lazy dreamer, you never want to rise
Stubborn in-between
You're almost paralyzed
Makes no difference to you
The sun shining in your eyes
Or the buzzer that's whining there
Waiting for you but they don't even realize
You're still out like a light
You're still out like a light
Dude gets him off, what the neighbors say
Lives in a room by himself
Nudge him awake and he blinks his eyes
Doesn't recognize anyone at all
Lazy dreamer, you never want to rise
Stubborn in-between
You're almost paralyzed
Makes no difference to you
The sun shining in your eyes
Or the buzzer that's whining
Waiting for you but they don't even realize
You're still out like a light
You're still out like a light
You're still out like a light
You're still out like a light
You're still out like a light
