When I Speak

Impending Doom

When I Speak: When I speak may it bend, break, and bleed sincerity. A voice, a voice like running waters, its not dry nor is it hollow, that is a river you want to follow. There are those who debase his word, look the part, but its too absurd, diminish his word, look the part but its too absurd. Im not telling you to meet any conditions, but to question everything! Everything has its time! Everything has its season, its purpose, timing, its reason. My length of years put into perspective determines. Nows the time! To question everything! Everything has its time! Not trying to shove anything down anyones throats. forgive me for judging the breath of life and the breath we breathe. Not trying to shove anything down anyones throats, forgive me for judging the breath of life and the breath we breathe. When I speak may it bend, break, and bleed sincerity. A voice like running waters its not dry nor is it hollow. That is a river you want to follow, want to follow. Question everything!

Lyrics submitted by ben.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/