

In the Dark

Silverstein

Tunnel your way in,
Itâ€™ll spit you out.

I can hold it in itâ€™s a godsend.
A heart like an hourglass on itâ€™s end.
Does it matter if the love ever comes back?
Does it matter if the sun ever comes back up?

In the dark, in the dark,
When I close my eyes I see you somehow.
Iâ€™ve never felt more alone
And it brings me down.

In the dark, in the dark,
When Iâ€™ve left this town and nothing matters now,
Iâ€™ve never felt more alone
God it brings me down.

(Donâ€™t try to fight it.)
Smiling like a fool, action I feign, lungs pushing air like a hurricane.
Can I fake it for whole train ride back?
Can I make it til the sky starts turning black?

In the dark, in the dark,
When I close my eyes I see you somehow.
Iâ€™ve never felt more alone
And it brings me down.

In the dark, in the dark,
When Iâ€™ve left this town and nothing matters now,
Iâ€™ve never felt more alone
God it brings me down.

I fell head first into Union Pool,
Never thought a night of joy would turn out so cruel.
Avoided tender trap never went inside,
But veins let out where avenues and streets collide.
If Iâ€™m out donâ€™t wake me,
This is the only peace I get.

And if Iâ€™m out donâ€™t wake me
Until the sun comes up again.
And as we leave we cross these bridges,
On bumpy roads that taunt me.
I know itâ€™s temporary,
It'll call me back to haunt me.

In the dark, in the dark,
When I close my eyes I see you somehow.
Iâ€™ve never felt more alone
God it brings me down.

In the dark, in the dark,
When Iâ€™ve left this town and nothing matters now,
Iâ€™ve never felt more alone
God it brings me down.
