

Once I Was Loved

Melody Gardot

I don't remember when I was young
I don't recall the day when I first saw the sun
But what I am certain, what is enough
Is just to remember that once, once I was loved
I still surrender to troubles unknown
No use pretending all the troubles ain't my own
I don't remember when I was young
I don't recall the day when I first saw the sun
But what I am certain, what is enough
Is just to remember that once, once I was loved
I still surrender to troubles unknown
No use pretending all the troubles ain't my own
But what I am certain, what is enough
Is just to remember that once, once I was loved
After the years gone by
What amounts to the year in a life
What have we come to when we reach our final days
If we can surrender, then that is enough
Just to remember that once, once I was loved
Once we were beautiful, once we were loved

Songwriters

GARDOT, MELODY Published by Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>