Boys Don't Matter

LoveSick Radio

He drove her home last Friday night
Another date, another stupid fight
He tried to make up, just one embrace
She slammed the car door, slammed it in his faceNow he's running through the lawn
He's trying to catch her before she's goneNo more waiting by the phone
She's not afraid just to be alone
She said, boy's don't, boy's don't matterShe's going out with all her friends
She's starting to feel free again
She said, boys don't, boy's don't matterShe's been so hurt, he's been so mean
Smacks her around like she's a tambourine
It's her time to laugh, it's her time to sing
Now it's her time to just try anythingNow she's running through his mind
He's wondering why she said goodbyeNo more waiting by the phone
She's not afraid to be alone
She said, boy's don't, boy's don't matterShe's going out with all her friends
She's starting to feel free again
She said, boys don't, boy's don't matterHer mind is made up
She'll let the memories lay there
With the mess he's made there and walk awayNo more waiting by the phone
She's not afraid just to be alone
She said, boy's don't matterNo more lying, no more cheating
She's so tired with it
She said, boy's don't, boy's don't matterShe's going out with all her friends
She's starting to feel free again
She said, boys don't, boy's don't matterNo waiting by the phone
She's not afraid to be alone
She said, boy's don't, boy's don't matterHer mind is made up
Boy's don't matter

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/