

Kentucky Line

Clay Underwood

I heard you left your dream in Memphis.

In a nightclub you were working in.

Then you moved in with some stranger, till you found the strength to run again.

White lines neon signs keep passing by, theyâ€™re burning a little brighter than the flame once in your eyes.

Youâ€™re somewhere out tonight with the stage lights on.

Another town, another show, and the same old songs.

(Chorus)

Iâ€™m still riding that Kentucky line.

Still got your wedding band on the dresser next to mine.

I think about a new love from time to time, and I wake up every morning with just you on my mind.

Every night I sleep to her favorite song, with the door unlocked and the porch light on.

So what are you waitinâ€™ on?

What are you waitinâ€™ on?

Instrumental

Yeahhh that old dresser with the picture of your face.

Leaves no guessing no one will ever take your place.

Tears and laughter just waiting in the room, Honey wonâ€™t you just come back home.

(Chorus)

Iâ€™m still riding that Kentucky line.

Still got your wedding band on the dresser next to mine.

I think about a new love from time to time, and I wake up every morning with just you on my mind.

Every night I sleep to her favorite song, with the door unlocked and the porch light on.

So what are you waitinâ€™ on?

What are you waitinâ€™ on?

Lyrics submitted by Robin T.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>