Autumn

The Blue Devils

And every time I walk away from you
There's never time to say what I really had in mind
And people try they never know what's right
It's all the same
A different life behind every face
But I can't change, I've seen a different page
It's in my head and I can't turn my back

And every word I try to say to you
I never say at the right time and in the right way
And every feeling waiting to escape
And suffocate every night and every day
And people try they never know what's right
It's all the same
A different life behind every face
Well I can't change, I've seen a different pain
It's in my head, and I won't turn back
