

I Search for Tomorrow

Leonard Nimoy

I search for tomorrow
Among the ashes of yesterday
Fragile and grey
I blow them away
And look for a spark
To light the dawn of tomorrow I search for tomorrow
Among the fallen pants of right now
Lifeless and brown
Can one be found?
Vibrantly green
Filled with a dream of tomorrow
For in my search I seek a meaning
That is buried somewhere in the bones of dreamers
Who have walked upon the earth
I've got to find a reason
Why was I born?
What am I worth?
I search for tomorrow
Among the shadows of what might be
Shapeless and free
So hard to see
What can I touch
That longs so much for tomorrow?
