

National Steel

Kathleen Edwards

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

What a surprise wearing your disguise on the telephone line
I know it pleased you to know I needed you and your time
You play the game not saying either way but you know Could've made it real quick save me the guilt trip and just said noAre you writing this all down?This conversation the alienation in your tone
I've got no fucking clue from your point of view and your time zone
I wouldn't have asked saved you the task if I weren't for real
Trading a daughter and two thousand dollars
For a national steelAre you writing this all down?

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>