Wanderlust

David Sylvian

Help me, I feel like I'm weightless
Floating right out of your hands
And there's only so much I aspire toTaking one day at a time
And deliverance has many faces
But grace is an aquaintance of mineTell me, how could it have happened?
You know, that we're not the marrying kind
Travel light, don't think twice
We're leaving the shadows behindIt's given us, yeah, this wonderful wanderlust
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
I don't doubt it, I feel it, yeah
Wanderlust, wanderlustHelp me, this waterboy's wasted
Falling right out of your sky
And there's nothing that could do without you
Loving the state that I'm inBetween no longer and not yet
On the threshold of some bright affair
The match was struck and I was fired
The embers of a drowning manTell me, why won't I listen
Or acknowledge that I don't understand?
Losing light, a selfish kind
We're out on the road againIt's given us, yeah, this wonderful wanderlust
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
It's given us this wonderful wanderlust
I don't doubt it, I feel it, yeahTurn the headlights on full
I want to take in it all and let it wash over me
The bridge looks so high from the ledge that we climbed
But we climbed them so that we could be freeGive me no dreams of what the future brings
I need to know when I have gone too far, oh
Repeated lightening strikes, up and down the spine
They search us out wherever we goIn a world full of lies that tug at the truth
I'm taking no sides, now, I recognise youWanderlust, wanderlust
It's given us, given us, this wonderful wanderlust
Wonderful, wonderful, wonderful
Wonderful wanderlust, I don't doubt it, no
