The Smallest Splinter

Hamilton Leithauser

Of course you decided to stand on your own
When the pain has come and is gone
Oh I guess I probably love you more than anyoneShow me the man who would have shown more
Give me the lion's share of your love
But save the smallest splinter locked up away forever
If that's the love you wish forShow me the man who won your whole heart
Hit me again 'cause I've been so numb
Each day is like the other
I sit alone and wonder what's left to ask forGive me a kiss and tell me I'm alright
Show me the man who never disappoints
They say it's all or nothing, I say I take what I can
I never play the victimHit me again cause I've been so numb
Give me the lion's share of your love
Well now I decided to take charge and keep some order
Against this endless river
But I do care nowGive me the lion's share of your love
I never ask for nothing, no more
Give me the lion's share of your love
Hit me again and I'll let you know, I think?

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/