Hatebreed

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

If there's one thing in this world that I must do
It will be, prove you wrong
Make you take back the lies
And bring the truth to the surface
Clean my slate and erase
All the black you've tried to tarnish my name with
This is conviction
What I have inside you'll never possess
And because you never understood how I lived
You try to disrespect
Well, I paid my fucking dues
And everything I have in this life
I've made from nothing, I've done this all on my own
That's more than you can say for yourself
You disrespect the way I live
You take apart what I say
You try to judge me
Now I'm judging you
You disrespect the way I live
You take apart what I say
You try to judge me
Now I'm judging you, I'm judging you
This time I'm judging you, I'm judging you
The harder you try to break me
The harder I push you on
If there's one thing in this world that I must do
It will be, prove you wrong
You never believed in this
And you never could admit your fault
You've always had everything handed to you
But your luck has finally run out
I knew from the beginning
That you had no heart or soul
I've always seen through your lies
And I'll always hate you for what you are
You disrespect the way I live
You take apart what I say
You try to judge me
Now I'm judging you
You disrespect the way I live
You take apart what I say
You try to judge me
Now I'm judging you
I'm judging you

I'm judging you The harder you try to break me
The harder I push you on
