

Still believe

Ten Foot Pole

So the walls are closing in to sufficate you
Like you're trapped and flailing blindly in a garbage bag
    You're sinking in a tar pit like a saber tooth...
    You struggle but the blackness sticks to you
        Like a disease that you can't wash off
    So you go into the kichen for acarving knife
        But you've tried to cut it out before
    It only left you hurting moreI still believe in you
        I hope that you'll pull through
        Don't let this moment last
        Let's put it in the past
        If you believe in me
    Sit down and try to braethe
        Let this dark moment go

Turn back to the you I knowYou're convinced your friends are hatching plots against you
    And your family conspires to watch your misery
        Everyone keeps saying it's just chemical
        Can't they see that chemicals are killing you?
            Just as surely as heart failure
        Why not another failure now you're on a roll
        Odd that the thought of dying makes you cry
            When all you dream about is suicide
