

Not Getting Over You

Terri Clark

I woke up at three a.m. and stumbled in the dark
I don't sleep much anyway since we've been apart
But that's just one of many things I've adjusted to so well
'Cause I surrendered long ago and now finally I can tell
I'm gettin' used to not gettin' over you
Not wonderin' how to shake, a hurt that won't go away
Not knowin' where to turn is somethin' I thought I'd never learn
It's really nothin' new
I'm just gettin' used to not gettin' over you
I head down Highway Forty
Past the place we used to go
I don't stop to cry anymore
I just drive by, real slow

And I don't feel the dagger when somebody speaks your name
I guess that I'm just growin' more accustomed to the pain
'Cause I'm gettin' used to not gettin' over you
Not wonderin' how to shake, a hurt that won't go away
Not knowin' where to turn is somethin' I thought I'd never learn
It's really nothin' new
I'm just gettin' used to not gettin' over you
Not knowin' where to turn is somethin' I thought I'd never learn
Ohh, it's really nothin' new
I'm just gettin' used to not gettin' over
A feelin' I can't lose
I'm just gettin' used to not gettin' over you
