

This Is the New Breed

Down By Law

somewhere in a cold jail cell is a man doing time, in a living hell
for perjury
but it's o.k. for billy somewhere is a young girl her life is forever swirled she's out of luck
but it's o.k. for billy
and so many pawns will fall for every king's stone wall i believe that we should strive for more obstruction, deception and still they blindly support him they've lowered the standards that they could've raised
it's such a shame
this is the new breed
and i'm standing on my own i remember when there were democrats who stood tall and were cool cats
now all i see are more suits and ties
double standards,
equivocate
but even kings can get checkmate just be honest and show this king the door some say that it's just lies, but i think it's just trust and i believe that we should strive for more
if he were in the g.o.p., you know that instantly they'd be lining up to fire but now they lowered the standards

that they could've raised
it's such a shame
but this is the new breed for every little kid today
who wonders why this one's o.k.
well, kid these are double standards
and this is the new breed
and i'm standing on my own
and maybe it's naive
for someone to believe that there's a better way to run the show today but somewhere is a man or woman political in stripe whoe doesn't want to fall in line who'll say what's wrong is right and it's time to put it right the king should lose his crown this time
who has the guts to say this thing is not o.k.
for the sake of kings to come
but now they lowered the standards
that they could've raised
it's such a shame
this is the new breed
for every little kid today
who wonders why this one's o.k.
well, kid these are double standards
and this is the new breed
this is the new breed
well i'm standing on my own

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>