Falling On

Finger Eleven

When you feel so close to some resolve
You write the words that you're writing for
But your courage gets dissolved
Into what, I don't knowWhen you feel that way again
You have to stop your thinking
And think of what you're here for
And let the rest of your feelings goYou've got to find your balance, you've got to realize
You've got to try to find what's right before your eyes
And if you find you've fallen and all your grace is gone
Just scream for me and I'll be watch you falling onWhen you feel so close to some resolve
And you say the things that you're standing for Don't let your courage get dissolved
'Cause it's then that the fear growsYou've got to find your balance, you've got to realize
You've got to try to find what's right before your eyes
And if you find you falling and all your grace is gone
Just scream for me and I'll be what you're falling onJust give me the word and I will be there
Send me the words that I've been living for Just tell me the things that you are not afraid for It's do or die this is either/or
Just give me the word and I will be there
Just give me the word and I will be thereYou've got to find your balance, you've got to realize
You've got to try to find what's right before your eyes
And if you find you're falling and all your grace is gone
Just scream for me and I'll be what you're falling onYou've got to find your balance, you've got to realize
You've got to try to find what's right before your eyes
And if you find you're falling and all your grace is gone
Just scream for me and I'll be what you're falling on
