So Long

People Corrupting People

Tear the curtains down again
And tell me friend
Do you remember last November when things were bright and when
We had it all so figured out
And somehow all our dreams
Have fallen through the seams
And even if I could I still wouldnâ€™t change a thing
We celebrate this new found doubt
Thatâ€™s what life is all about

So take me back
To that night so long ago
Yeah you and I
Had come so far, had so far to go
And now the question is Where have all the good times gone?

Tear the curtains down again
And tell me friend
Do you remember last November when things were bright and when
We had it all so figured out
And somehow all our dreams
Have fallen through the seams
And even if I could I still wouldnâ€™t change a thing
We celebrate this new found doubt
Thatâ€™s what life is all about

Memories of tragedies
Is what makes up you and me
If we embrace
Our twisted fates
Maybe we wonâ€™t be too late
Maybe we can find a way
To replace our broken names
And in time these sunken lines
Will slowly fade away

Tear the curtains down again
And tell me friend

Do you remember last November when things were bright and when
We had it all so figured out
And somehow all our dreams
Have fallen through the seams
And even if I could I still wouldnâ€™t change a thing
We celebrate this new found doubt
Thatâ€™s what life is all about

And I know you would say
Nothing gold can stay
Nothing gold can stay
(x2)

Nothing left to say
Found a better way
Two paths diverged in a wood one day
I took the path with you
And all you lead me through
I took the path that led me astray

Tear the curtains down again
And tell me friend
Do you remember last November when things were bright and when
We had it all so figured out
And somehow all our dreams
Have fallen through the seams
And even if I could I still wouldnâ€™t change a thing
We celebrate this new found doubt
Thatâ€™s what life is all about

So take me back
To that night so long ago

Lyrics Submitted by People Corrupting People

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/