

Remind You

Andy Grammer

It doesn't mean you're weak
Or that you got low self-esteem
We all got hearts that forget why they beat
We are brilliant, we are unique
But we forget so effortlessly And when you're questioning your worth in the way that we all do
And your version of amnesia starts to seep on through
And you know that you are great but you can't remember why
I will be there by your side I will remind you, I will remind you
I will be, I'll be your memory
I will remind you, I will remind you
All you need is someone else to see
I will remind you We get a little bit lost like ships at sea
We don't remember right where we're supposed to be And when you're questioning your worth in the way that we all do
And your version of amnesia starts to seep on through
And you know that you are great but you can't remember why
I will be there by your side I will remind you, I will remind you
I will be, I'll be your memory
I will remind you, I will remind you
All you need is someone else to see A little bit of love from someone you trust
Can bring you back to life, a little bit of love
A little bit of love from someone you trust
Can bring you back to life, a little bit of love
A little bit of love from someone you trust
Can bring you back to life, a little bit of love
A little bit of love from someone you trust
Can bring you back to life, a little bit of love I will remind you, I will remind you
I will be, I'll be your memory
I will remind you, I will remind you
All you need is someone else to see
I will remind you

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>