The Unspeakable

Building Castles Out Of Matchsticks

Whenever I wake to see you wake, so near you I get kind of tired just watching you perspire sleepy in the corner of your eye I've lived my life so wellWhenever i hold my head up high I note there's no sky under which I lie so motionless at times I get off on watching the seasons fly by I've lived my life so wellBut you've put me through hell but it'll get better my love you left your sweater hung up in my heart but i'll get betterI've lived my life so well why don't you take off your thinly disguised emoting lies wash away my dear, all of my worst fears I get eerie feelings when you're near I've lived my life so wellbut you've put me through hell but i'll get better my love you left your sweater hung up in my heart
but i'll get betterI've lived my life so well
