

C.O.T.E.

Karnivool

Are you willing to choose what I have in my mind?
Say it loud, with a voice of no reason in mind
I suppose this question will be answered And I suppose the answer's here to save us
Have you heard have you listened lately?
Single word, single vowel, yet nothing frustrates me Now I don't think you like me now
Now I don't think you like me now Have you heard? It's a silent dream
It chooses the weather of your soul stream
So drop me down, let me feel this either way
Face me inside with a broken view, a broken heart, disappear Now I don't think you like me now
Now I don't think you're like me now Hold it, hold it
I won't leave you
Now hold it down, please Sing alone, sing aloud, to be alive, its so good to feel you near Swim alone, live a dream, see me drown, all this in apathy
Be still for a moment
So you can face this world, you face it all for a moment
So you can face this world, you face this world Hold it, hold it
I won't leave you
Now hold it down, please

Songwriters

Mark Hosking; Ian Kenny; Andrew Goddard; Jonathan Stockman Published by EMI MUSIC PUBLISHING (AUSTRALIA) Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>