Christine

Sugarcult

what's wrong? i feel so alone again. the look in your eyes sometimes... pretending that it's all right. make up and move on, our ways never change and i can get anyone that i want - you'll see christine. and i would do anything if you could believe in me, but girl-you play those tricks and make a fool out of me. that's the way it goes here. i can't stand loving you anymore. i try my best, but i'm back for more. my heart beat stops every time you leave me. hanging on lately... last night, she came back into my life. to play with my head this time. she's hanging me out for dead i take it and move on, our ways will never change and i can get anyone that i want - you'll see christine. and i would do anything if you could believe in me. but girl, you play those tricks and make a fool out of me. that's the way it goes here. i can't stand loving you anymore. i try my best, but i'm back for more. my heart beat stops every time you leave me. hanging on lately... take her away, take her away, take her away from this place. take her away, take her away, take her away from this place. what's wrong? i feel so alone again. i flunked out a thousand times, it's making me realize, that i'm back and better for us. our ways will never change and i can get anyone that i want - you'll see christine. and i would do anything if you could believe in me. but girl, you play those tricks and make a fool out of me. you'll see, christine.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/