Everyday Now

Texas

I just woke up I can see it now It's never been this close before Tried to tell myself I didn't careCrying out why am I here? There's no point in me hiding And only now I can seeEveryday now, everyday now The blame's gonna fall on meSomething deep inside said move away Try to leave what's good behind And I still ask myself why I let it goAll those years we wasted time There's no point in me hiding And only now I can seeEveryday now, everyday now The blame's gonna fall on meEveryday now, everyday now The blame's gonna fall on me'Cause I never told you That I could never live without it Now the blame's on me'Cause I never told you That I could never live without it Now the blame's on me And you will hear me sayEveryday now, everyday now The blame's gonna fall on me

•••

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/