

Home Again

Oingo Boingo

Where is she going?
Ooh, she looks like shes lost
Wont someone help her?
Somebody give her a handShes got such sweet eyes
Look like theyve seen too much
Knew someone like her
Nobody helped, but shes
Home again, home again, home againWhere are you going?
To see a crazy old man
What will he tell you?
Hell tell me where Im goin'What will you do then?
Oh, I might just quit my job
What will you do then?
Im gonna find my way
Home again, home again, home againWherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were home
Wherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were homeWhere is he going?
Why does he walk that way?
Stickin' his chest out
What is he tryin' to say?Hes got charisma
But when hes all alone
He curls up in a ball
And wishes that he was
Home again, home again, home againWhere are we goin'?
Why do we feel so small?
Alone and helpless
In this big crazy worldLookin' for somethin'
Thats so hard to describe
But just like children
Goin' along for the
Ride again, ride again, ride againWherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were home
Wherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were homeWell, aint that somethin'
Guess I lost my head
Must have took a wrong turn
When I got outa bedEnded up on the wrong street
Wrong side of town

People here are the wrong type
Theyve got me downIm eatin' the wrong food
Drinkin the wrong wine
Cant hardly see straight
Cant walk the lineShakin all the wrong hands
Makin the wrong talk
Steppin on the wrong feet
Every time I walkWherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were home
Wherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were homeWherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were home
Wherere we goin'? Wherere we goin'?
Home again, were home again, were home
