Something Like Me

Staind

Shards of broken pieces
Shattered on the floor
It's not enough to bleedTears and angry voices
Cracks around the door
No apologiesAnd every time you say you love me
I just have to stop and catch my breath
How can somebody love something like meIf you could only say you're sorry
There is nothing in this world I can't forget
Waiting here for you to set me freeToys and colored pencils
Scattered on the floor
Underneath my feetYou're always crying over nothing
You're always wanting more
You never go to sleepBut every time you say you love me
I just have to stop and catch my breath
How can somebody love something like meAnd every time I feel I'm falling
She'll be there to save me from myself
Little angel watching over meOur taxis in the driveway
Our bags are at the door
And it still kills me to leaveBut every time you say you love me
I just have to stop and catch my breath
How can somebody love something like meAnd every time I feel I'm falling
You're the one's who saved me from myself
You give me something to believeAnd with you here
These cracks and tears
Fade away
