

Higher Mountains

Emmylou Harris & Rodney Crowell

You're out there among the stars
It never will seem right
If I could get to where you are
I'd be there tonight Were you just a dream I had
How am I to know
I can't hold you in my arms
And I can't let you go Higher mountains
Deeper valleys
Longer rivers
Stand between us now
I could climb that jagged peak
I could cross that great divide
If I knew that you'd be waiting
For me on the other side The days pass by my window now
Oh, but nights like these are rough
I can feel you in my heart
But that's not close enough
If I could hear you breathe again
The comfort of your sigh
I'd gladly trade tomorrow in
On one more last goodbye Higher mountains
Deeper valleys
Longer rivers
Stand between us now When I rise above the seas
(When you rise above the earth)
And the Firmaments collide
(And the Firmaments collide)
When I pass through Heaven's gateway
Let me enter as your bride
(Yes you will enter as my bride)
Bluebonnets in my hair
(That I will gather for you there)
That you'll gather for me there You're out there among the stars
