My Evergreen

Squirrel Nut Zippers

Summer smiles but passes on
Autumn sings her lonely song
The Robin waits for spring
But what will waiting bringWinter spreads her blanket down
White and flawless on the ground
The flowers can't be seen
But you're my evergreenCold north wind has come around
Fragile ones stay underground
But there is one who thrives
Despite the chilling skyThe one I love is constant
Though seasons come and seasons go
She will abide with me
My darling evergreen
