Break You

Marion Raven

I was your girl, gave you my world
My everything but you wouldn't see
I had your back, I backed you up
Whatever I did was never enoughJust you, you
That's all you ever thought about you, you
No one matters like you do
What goes around comes around
You should know by nowBet you never thought that I could break you
Did you think that I would look the other way?
Yeah, you had it all figured out
But tell me who's the one who's crying now?The palm of your hand, that was your plan
Gave me no time but now you want mine
It's all about take, you took too much
Nothing inside, I'm all used upCome on, you, you
Nothing else matters like you do
You know what I'm talkin' 'bout, don't you?
What goes around comes around
You should know by nowBet you never thought that I could break you
Did you think that I would look the other way?
Yeah, you had it all figured out
But tell me who's the one who's crying now?All your one night stands
(Should've thought about that)
Says she's just a friend
(Should've thought about that)
Are you satisfied now'?
(Should've thought about that)
'Cause you can't hold me downNot now, I wanna thank you 'cause now I'm free
I can breath again and I'm never going back to youBet you never thought that I could break you
Did you think that I would look the other way?
Yeah, you had it all figured out
But tell me who's the one who's crying now?Bet you never thought that I could break you
Did you think that I would look the other way?
Yeah, you had it all figured out
But tell me who's the one who's crying now?
