A Million Miles

Wolfsheim

A million miles from here, I stand alone and shout
Not any thoughts, not any doubtsI look around and nothing, I can see is true
This is anything but newI feel a silent rain pour down impassively
A solemn nightfall kills the light that longs to beA needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustain
A needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustainI feel a silent rain pour down on me
A million miles from here, I stand aloneI look around and everything is untrue
Anything but newA needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustain
A needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustainA needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustain
A needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustainA needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustain
A needless pain, you bear in vain
Unless you can see there is nothing to sustain
