

Zero's and Three's

The Evan Anthem

If only I could move a galaxy that's multiplied by five You could decide to move the great divide
When I find you split the seventeen to separate the sky I'll turn the zero into my rocket ride. Before me, swirl these circles of zero's and three's and the planets fell apart for me. When I find a number greater than the sum of what you'll find
I'll turn to hide and hitch a ride to save the seventh planet That raised a question underneath the sun. I'll come back for me, again.
