Save Your Scissors

Dallas Green

So go on and I will refrain
And I'll keep on running this never ending race
Maybe next time will be the right time
And maybe next time will be your timeSo save your scissors someone else's skin
My surface is so tough, I don't think the blade will dig in
Save your strength, save your wasted time
There's no way that I want you to be left behind
Go on save your scissors, save your scissorsSo why does it always seem
That every time I turn around somebody falls in love with me?
This has never been my soul intention
And I have never claimed to have pates on such inventionsJust save your scissors someone else's skin
My surface is so tough, I don't think the blade will dig in
Save your strength, save your wasted time
There's no way that I want you to be left behind
Go on save your scissors, save your scissorsThere is something that I must confess
To you tonight, to you tonight
And that is I expect nothing less
From you tonight, from you tonightGo on save your scissors
Save your scissors, save your scissors

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/