You'll Never Be Like Him

Brooke Hogan

I wish you smiled like him, you walked like him and talked like him
And love me as good as he did
I try to imagine him livin' in your skin but you're not like him
So why do I even compare?I think 'bout now and how it was then
And how it was with him and I try to see
All those qualities livin' in you butYou're nothin' like the man I used to love
And you'll never do what he does
I'm reluctant to find that the more I try
To make you fit in, you'll never be like himYou'll never be like him
Never be, never be like himI wish you kissed like him, you felt like him and held like him
And touched me the way that he did
I try to see his face in your place 'cause I can't erase
The way I felt when he was mineI think 'bout now and how it was then
And how it was with him and I try to see
All those qualities livin' in you butYou're nothin' like the man I used to love
And you'll never do what he does
I'm reluctant to find that the more I try
To make you fit in, you'll never be like himThere's no chance for romance
There's no way I would stay
I won't always get what I want
But I'm not gonna settle for less
I gonna go my own wayYou're nothin' like the man I used to love
And you'll never do what he does
I'm reluctant to find that the more I try
To make you fit in, you'll never be like himYou're nothin' like the man I used to love
And you'll never do what he does
I'm reluctant to find that the more I try
To make you fit in, you'll never be like himYou'll never be like him
