sharkara

Take aim at your promised land
Where would you be without it?
Destroy your legacy so grand

No peace will halt your vengeance And so again, what makes you settle so convinced?

A relic that leaves no room for peace?

So fragile it has always been

Outside main focus Your focus should be suffering
Or have their cries made you go numb?
Can't you see the enemy within?

Blind with hate, you desecrate what brought you here But then again, it makes you settle so convinced

A relic that leaves no room for peace

So fragile it has always been

Outside your focus Extinction, your final goal

Now you're the relic And so again, you stand here settled, so convinced

Blindfolded, hate filled, without regrets The center of attention

Doomed, you stand and fight the flames

Lit by your own hand

You can't float upon the river of flame
