

Run

Vallis Alps

Light falls
On the pavement
Wakeful
With my guard let down Holding tightly to the words you gave me
Under oath the minute I said maybe Steady dedication
In my resignation
Empty handed 'cause I live in daydreams
That's why I haven't shown my face here lately (Say it to my heart and run)
And I don't know what I was running from
(And run)
But I knew you'd say it to my heart and run (and run)
You knew it from the start
You've won, you've won, you've won You knew it from the start
You've won, you've won, you've won So blame it on my heart
And run, and run, and run So blame it on my heart
And run, and run, and run, and run Hopeful, but impatient
Floating so I'm not tied down
I'm becoming what the Fable gave me
Stepping sideways off the path of safety So I could say to you that I was wrong, and go on with it or
I could play the fool and be outdone
But my defence your honour waits above
I'm becoming what the Fable made me
(Say it to my heart and run)
And I don't know what I was running from
(And run)
But I knew you'd say it to my heart and run You knew it from the start
You've won, you've won, you've won You knew it from the start
You've won, you've won, you've won So blame it on my heart
And run, and run, and run So blame it on my heart
And run, and run, and run, and run
