Pinking Up

Sheila Nicholls

the waters pinking up with the ink in your veins air bubble now is creeping closer to your brain the water in the vase simulated the soil but youve been disconnected now for so long although you think shes loyalall your conclusions and all your truth's are all delusions and TV spoofs shame that those histories that you wrote were one sided and presumptuousjustifying and holding on to something that is just not real are you punishing the rest of us because you forgot how to feel living in a mechanical world in an organic time, where war is an old question to a new answer you just cant seem to definenope you cant get your head around it.all your conclusions and all your truths are all delusions and tv spoof shame you weren't watching closer as a child cos all the lies have gone unnoticed

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/