Human Error

Mefjus & Bowsar

If I was a writer, I'd write my opinions
And save them for later
Just to see how wrong I could beIf I was a painter, I'd paint all my rainbows in different colors, or probably just black and greyIf I was a writer, I'd write my opinions
And send them a letter
Just to see they listen to me and I sayTrial and error, I'm not sure I've been here before
I'm drowning in humans, And I'm sure I've met you beforeIf I was a writer, I'd write my opinions
And save them for later
Just to see how wrong I could beIf I was a painter, I'd paint all my pictures
in different colors, or probably just black and greyIf I was a writer, I'd write my opinions
And send them a letter
Just to see they listen to me and I sayTrial and error, I'm not sure I've been here before
I'm drowning in humans, And I'm sure I've met you before I'm drowning in humans, And I'm sure I've met you beforeSo why did you stand there laughing?
Holding your tongue like it was your sword.
Why did you stand there laughing?
Holding your tongue like it was your sword

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/