The Ringing in My Ears

Her Space Holiday

Think about those books you read And I wonder if they make you think about me Maybe if the hero dies or kisses other girls And tries to justify his reasons whySet the stage for make believe I said I'm not your father and I'll never leave I'll just stay and make it worse And keep your life from going on it's natural courseThink about those songs you play And wonder if the words help you to stay Maybe if the melody is filled with both the pain And the ecstasy of loving me
