

Love Is a Chemical

Robert Francis

They say love is just a chemical, swimming in your brain. I guess that's why I've spent my whole life driving in one lane.

I watch the exits go by, but the engine it won't slow. Keep your eyes up ahead, I'm young enough that I can't let go.

I know my heart is good, I know that I am weak.

Closer to you, closer to me, close enough for us to see. Love is just a chemical.

They say love is just a chemical, your brain inside your skull.

It's seeping like a piece of meat, and the heart is getting old.

I watch the exits go by, but the engine it won't slow.

So keep your eyes up ahead, I'm young enough that I can't let go.

I know my heart is good, I know that I am weak.

Closer to you, closer to me, close enough for us to see. Love is just a chemical. Love is just a chemical.

I know my heart is good, I know that I am weak.

Closer to you, closer to me, close enough for us to see. Love is just a chemical. Love is just a chemical

Closer to you, closer to me.

Love is just a chemical.

Love is just a chemical.

Love is just a chemical.
