Lovers & Liars

The Common Linnets

I see the light of a silver moon shining on lovers and liarsAngry morning, wasted nights
One more day that we see slipping by Walls and bridges we don't cross
One more battle in the war we've lostBitter is the taste of the truth that we can't faceI see the light of a silver moon
Shining on lovers and liars
Here's to the fighters and here's to the fools
Lost in the fire of loveIn the shadow of what we were
Is there still a spark, does it still burn
Faded flowers in the sand
Sad reminder of the love we hadAnd bitter is the taste of the truth that we can't faceI see the light of a silver moon
Shining on lovers and liars
Here's to the fighters and here's to the fools
Lost in the fire of love
Lost in the fire of loveWill we see the break of dawn and will we still be holding on Will there be a different light upon us
Can we give more than we take
And mend the hearts about to break
Before the moment is too late to save usI see the light of a silver moon
Shining on lovers and liarsI see the light of a silver moon
Shining on lovers and liars
Here's to the fighters and here's to the fools
Lost in the fire of love (3x)
