

Unusual

Francesca Battistelli

Everybody laughed at you
For doing what you're supposed to do
Standing up for what is true
Got your feelings hurt tonight
You must be doing something right You're so unusual
I think you're beautiful
You're so unusual Gray is now the status quo
Black and white's not in, you know
You're the zebra in the pony show
You wear your faith just like a light
I'd say you're doing something right You're so unusual
I think you're beautiful
You're so unusual Standing up for Jesus' name
Just let them call you strange
I call you brave, unique and set apart
A masterpiece, a work of art
Living out what you believe
Being who you're made to be
I love to see the way that you are so You're so unusual
I think you're beautiful
You're so unusual Unusual
I think you're beautiful
You're so unusual
Oh, for heaven's sake
You're unafraid and unashamed
You're so unusual What's up with all these shades of gray
The difference should be night and day
You're so unusual Brave, unique and set apart
Masterpiece, a work of art
Living out what you believe
Being who you're made to be
I love to see the way that you are
Unusual

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>