Knievel Has Landed

Stone Sour

Every time I fall
I'm a little less me and a little bit more you
And everywhere I go
there's a little less there and a little bit more to lose
Did you ever wonder why?
I can't decide if I'm a little bit dead or a little bit guarded
Cause even when I try, you and I are a little less there and just discardedIf we collapse
Under all the weight
Of our self-importance
What if it's too lateI threw it all away
It doesn't make it better
Why am I the ostracized?
Maybe I can change
If I put it back together
If I'm right then I don't want to know
Even if I could
I'll never be free from a little bit more than this
It won't do any good, any other way is a little bit more to risk
But I say "Fuck it, risk it!"If we collapse
Only time will tell
Obey the same disorders
And ride your ass to hellI threw it all away
It doesn't make it better
Why am I the ostracized?
Maybe I can change
If I put it back together
If I'm right then I don't want to know
I threw it all away
It doesn't make it better
Why am I the ostracized?
Maybe I can change
If I put it back together
If I'm right then I don't want to know
Then I don't want to know
I don't want to know
Know, know, know
