Unheard

Unbroken

Anytime I talk to you
You just scream even when I often try
To you it's not good enough
If I try to show affection you turn away
Your so called care is just like the door you slam in my face
Who is on my side, does anyone care?
It's the hands of my parents that I often fear
Why must this be part of my reality
Why must your anger always be aimed at me
Who hears my screams in the night
Everything is wrong, nothing is right
To me your love is nothing but a lie
Why can't anyone hear my unheard cries
You never cared, you never listened
You were never there, you just ignore
