

Skin Deep

All

I looked your way You looked your best Looked like a million More or less You were so carefully undressed
And I'm not impressed But you're just skin deep You're just skin deep Like you change your clothes Just like all the rest Because you change your mind Pre-fab perspective, poise and pose But it's just skin deep And that's as far as it goes In it comes and out it goes ReflectionObsession It's all done with mirrors And painted smiles
The hype of style I looked away But you're just skin deep I could have cried You always have me hypnotized And looks can lie Sure would like to know what your like inside You're just skin deep So why even try?
