

Hello Mama

Squire Parsons

Hello, Mama.
I just called to tell you,
All those you tears you shed for me,
They were not in vain.
Mama, something happened,
Tonight while traveling down a country road.
I thought that you should be the first to know,
That I am not the same.

All those dreary days, they're over now,
Those sleepless nights are past.
All those prayers that you have prayed so long,
They're answered now at last.
For I'm not the boy I used to be,
Mama, you can sleep tonight,
For I found Jesus,
Now everything's all right.

I remember,
How every night before you'd go to sleep,
I'd hear you ask the Lord my soul to keep,
That I might find the way.
I'm so thankful,
That through my loneliness and those wasted years.
Mama, those prayers kept ringing in my ears,
Every night and day.

But all those weary days they're over now,
Those sleepless nights are past.
All those prayers that you have prayed so long,
They're answered now at last.
For I'm not the boy I used to be,
Mama, you can sleep tonight,
For I found Jesus.
Now everything's all right.

Oh, for I'm not the boy I used to be.
Mama, you can sleep tonight.
For I found Jesus,
Now everything's all right.

Yes. It's all right.
