

Put Me Out

The Used

You bought your smile in a corner, you paid a pretty little penny you did
You paint yourself in a picture, as you deny the kind of person you've been
 You kill what you fear, what you wish to be,
 You kill with sarcastic sincerity,
 You sharpened your guilt like a guillotine,
 You kill what you fear
I gave you everything, you threw it all away,
 Put me out like a cigarette,
 Love like a cancer yet you beg me to stay,
 Put me out like a cigarette,
You bought right into the moment, you paid a pretty little penny you did,
You never noticed how broken, as you deny the kind of person you've been Fear, you kneel to pray,
 Live life on your knees,
 Embrace the disease,
 Stop to breathe me in,
 As you start to choke,
 Your new life begins
